THE TAIL THAT WAGS THE DOG.

MANHATTAN continues to enact the role of the tail that wags the dog. Since the primaries the Pine Tree camp has come into its own and is not a bit chary about claiming its reward for casting the vote that eventuated in nominating the present Manhattan ring for office. Among the first plums shaken from the tree were five items aggregating $676.30, payable to the order of one printing concern which only recently arrived in Tonopah. The commissioners, thinking to escape criticism, allowed these bills to be issued under three different names, when they knew the amounts were going to one firm. If there was no desire to shield themselves from the consequences of gross favoritism in paying back Manhattan obligations the county commissioners would not have permitted the use of the names of three firms. Every official in the courthouse was instructed to stock up with stationery before he was forced out of office and before a new board of county commissioners would prevent this rank steal from the treasury of the county. One item in the list is 3,400 postal cards, or double the quantity required.

JUG HANDLED FUSION.

WHEN the packed meeting of Republicans cast its vote for fusion it was with the positive and solemn understanding that candidates of neither party should take any part in the meetings of state candidates nor in any way show their leaning for either side in the state contest. This agreement was ratified at a meeting of the joint executive committees. It read as follows:

We further recommend that candidates on the county ticket do not actively participate in political meetings of state candidates or become active in any way in the candidacy of any state candidate. No attention was paid this agreement by the Democratic candidates, who gleefully took part in the recent Democratic meeting at Miners' Exchange hall and also went to the expense of following the state candidates to Round Mountain and Manhattan. When approached with a breach of faith these candidates calmly disavowed all knowledge of the compact and repudiated the arrangement as one which they knew nothing of and which they had not been consulted about. Even a member of the sub-committee of the Democratic county central committee whose signature appears attached to the resolution insisted that he knew nothing about the facts or the meaning of the document to which he signed his name to bind his party. If he knew nothing of the matter the agreement could not have been deemed of any great importance or it certainly would have impressed itself on his memory instead of treating it as makeshift contrived to dupe the other side and to which no significance could be attached. For the Democratic committee the agreement is signed by H. R. Cooke, D. J. Fitzgerald and C. B. Epstine. Fitzgerald has taken an active part in the state campaign and continues taking an active part in boosting for the Democratic state ticket in Nye county contrary to his written pledge not to do so and to remain from active participation in political meetings of state candidates.

WHERE ROADWORK WOULD COUNT.

TONOPAH must take what it gets and be satisfied with sucking the hind teat when it comes to asking the county commissioners for recognition. Tonopah pays 90 per cent of the county taxes and receives less than 10 per cent of the appropriations, with little or no service of any value to the residents of this camp. Some sixty days ago the nucleus of a gold camp was started on the bleak hills north of Tonopah. The entire distance was only four miles. In less than thirty days between 80 and 100 miners were working there and today there is an active population of at least 135 men earnestly engaged in trying to establish a gold producing camp on a paying basis. Several shipments are almost ready to send out. At least one company has erected a gallows frame and hauled in a gasoline hoist at great expense. Large timbers have been taken in during the course of development by leasers who are using their own small funds in an endeavor to extend the tax producing area of Tonopah. They have not received the slightest encouragement from the county commissioners. They have not asked for much, but what little they did seek was rejected with a supercilious scorn that sat well on the countenances of men who had no hesitation in spending $630.23 last month in sections of the state where there is not a tithe of the travel that passes over half a mile of road between here and Tonogold that is sadly in need of repairs. One week's work by two men and a team would accomplish wonders in the route to the new camp. The commissioners have been importuned to do something, but they continue to say they have no funds and therefore cannot spend a dollar in an effort to encourage a bunch of honest miners making a living and bring prosperity to Tonopah.

This "no money" stuff has been pulled off too often to be entertained seriously by the business men of Tonopah. For instance, last month they found means for spending $253.45 in the vicinity of Manhattan for useless road work, $246.78 was spent in Duckwater. These are the sections that rolled up a beggarly majority for the present county board. All combined do not comprise as many taxpayers as the new camp of Tonogold, where the county refuses to spend a dollar on the chance of developing a live gold camp.

IRISH SOLDIERS IN THE ARMY OF GREAT BRITAIN

NO SUCH WORD AS SURRENDER KNOWN TO THE GAL-LANT LADS.

(By International News Service.)

PAULS, Oct. 19.—Irishmen fighting Britain's battles in France today are proving themselves worthy of the finest traditions of their race. There have been many stories of their endurance and pluck, but two related by a trooper of the Irish Dragoons may be taken as typical.

"There was a man of ours," says the trooper, "who carried a chum to a farmhouse under fire, and when the retreat came got left behind. The German patrol called and found them. There were only the two, one wounded, against a dozen Uhlans. Behind a barrier of furniture they kept the Germans at bay, wounding or killing half of them. The Germans made off and brought a machine gun to the house and threatened to destroy it.

"The two soldiers were not mindful of the kindness shown them by the owners of the farm, and rather than bring loss on them or the village they made a rush out with some mad idea of taking the gun.

"Just over the threshold of the door they fell dead, their blood bespattered the walls of the house.

"People may call them pig-headed for not surrendering, but that sort of wrong-headedness is worth a lot as inspiration to others, and if British soldiers had always worried about what the stay-at-homes would think of their deeds, some of the finest stories in the history of the army could never have been told.

There was a young chap of the Irish rifles. He was kneeling beside a wounded man of the Gloucesters, I think keeping off the Germans, who were circling round like carrion birds. He had been hit himself, but was gamely firing at the enemy as fast as his wounded arm would permit. We went to his assistance, but they were both worn out when we reached them and, greatly to our regret, we had to leave them to be picked up by the Red Cross people.

"That was hard; but if you tried to pick up every wounded man you saw you wouldn't be much use as a fighter, and as we were under urgent orders to take up a position from which to cover the retreat, we had no time for sentiment. They knew that, and they weren't the men to ask us to risk the safety of the army for them.

"Never mind," the riflemen said, with a faint smile on a ghastly face, "the sisters will pick us up when it's all over, but if they don't, sure, then, we've only got once to die and it's the grand fight we've had anyhow. What more could soldiers ask for."

"When we came back again one of the men was there sure enough—stone dead; but his mate had gone, and whether the was the Germans or the Red Cross people that got him I wouldn't care to say.

Not only on the battlefield is the British soldier showing his grit as an incident related by a member of the Royal army medical corps, now invalided home, well shows. Relating his experiences he says:

"It was wonderful how cheerful the wounded were. One poor fellow who had been shot in the head and hit by a shrapnel bullet in the mouth and was apparently dying, pointed out to me another man, badly wounded, remarking, 'That poor bloke is going home; he will be home before me.'"
